ALLEGED BRASS THIEF BELIEVED MURDERER
WANTED IN CAPITAL*Police Think Charles Adams, Negro, Slayer Booked
at Washington.*SUSPECT AND PAL IMPRISONED*Henry Johnson, Colored, Also Jailed for Stealing Large Amount of Metal
From Baltimore & Ohio; Supposed Burglars' Drills on Former.

Charles Adams, negro, arrested with a sack of 50 pounds of brass and five steel drills in his possession, similar to those used in opening safes, in the lockup here, answers the description of George Jackson, negro, wanted for a Washington, D. C., murder, according to Constable J. W. Mitchell, today.

Adams, who claims Washington as his home, and Henry Johnson, of Eastville, Tenn., were caught by Constable Mitchell and Patrolman George Francis while attempting to sell the brass to a junk dealer on North Water street, last evening. Both negroes were booked as suspicious characters. Burgess J. L. Evans this morning held them 48 hours for investigation.

In the hearing, Adams said he could not tell his exact age, but thought it was about 25 years. Johnson said he believed his age was between 30 and 40 years. He declared the brass was gathered while working for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company at Broad Ford, that some was stolen, and that it was carried away with the approval of his foreman.

Word from the Metropolitan Police Detective Bureau, Washington, D. C., to Constable Mitchell, was that No. 5289, in their criminal gallery, tallied with Adams. The photograph sent here bore the name of George Jackson, described as a negro, 26 years old, 5 feet 10 inches in height, and 140 pounds weight. Jackson was alleged to have murdered a man and a $200 reward for his capture was offered.

"I'm wanted in Washington, but not for that," Adams admitted to Constable Mitchell last night, speaking of the murder. Constable Mitchell arranged to have Adams' description and photograph sent to Washington.

Johnson first declared he carried the brass and drills from Tennessee, said Constable Mitchell; then he pretended he could not answer questions because of stuttering. The drills, however, are marked "J. & O. High speed, 9.32." Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials were notified.

Adams was entered on the police docket as a laborer. He said he had worked at brick plants before coming here. The Washington police advice was that Jackson was a bricklayer. Johnson said he was a bricklayer. Both claimed they were elicits.

The Bamfords have rented two furnished rooms from a family at Dutch Bottom, into which Mrs. Shelby and children have moved. They need a coal stove, for which Captain and Mrs. Bamford appealed to the public.

Attorneys Who Were Opponents in Trial of Gun Men Friendly After Verdict Was Rendered

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—District Attorney Whitman, who is being highly praised because of the successful prosecution of former Lieutenant Becker and the gunman he hired to murder Herman Rosenthal says that the verdict means the end of gang rule in New York City. This is the first time that a gangster has been convicted of first degree murder, though killings have been frequent. Convicting four members of a powerful gang at one time is expected to strike terror into the hearts of the men who believe allegiance to a leader is better than obedience to law. Former Magistrate C. G. F. White, who defended the gunman, was complimented by District Attorney Whitman on the efforts he made for his clients. After the trial the two lawyers left the courtroom together, and this snapshot of them was made at that time.

W. VA. MINERS WIN POINTAgreement Signed With New Operator Granting Union Demands.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 23.—Miners made their first gains in the strike in the Kanawha field yesterday when an agreement was signed under which 200 miners are expected to return to work at Elkendale Monday. H. Lynn Smith, of Washington, secretary and treasurer of the National Bituminous Coal & Coke Company, a $2,000,000 corporation incorporated yesterday under the laws of this State, and already owning a mine at Crown Hill in the Kanawha field, consummated a deal by which his company takes over the holdings of the Holley & Stephenson Coal & Coke Company, at Elkendale. Before closing, his option on the property, Smith signed with the local miners' union at Elkendale what is practically the union agreement. The new agreement grants an increase in pay of 10 per cent the short ton and in general the usual effort on the north side of the Kanawha river, Crown Point. The other operators say they will grant nothing which carries recognition of the union.

Samuel Russell was run down by a head-on collision and mine car in the mountains and taken to military headquarters at Paint Creek Junction. Russell is alleged to be one of the leaders of the band which "shot up" the town of High Coal, W. Va., outside the mining zone. It is declared by the military that 30 men were concerned in the attack on High Coal.

United Press Telegram.

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Although officialdom insisted today that a general European clash was unlikely, the public is trembling. The present extensive military preparations cannot be but noticed by all and it is generally believed that war is imminent.

The Vienna "Reichpost" (daily newspaper) is authority for the statement that, despite denials, Russia has concentrated her military forces along the Austrian frontier. An unconfirmed report is that the Austrian government has asked the Czar to explain the warlike movements, and that Russia's reply has been that internal conditions made mobilization of troops necessary.

The Albanian chiefs have declared their country's independence, according to a dispatch received here today.

VIENNA, Nov. 23.—Serbian defiance of Austria has finally culminated in preparations for war. There is no mistaking the meaning of the course taken yesterday when Austrian reserves were summoned to the colors immediately. The army corps of reserve will join the force which is already equipped and ready to take the field at once.

Warlike preparations were continued against Serbia, when a double military guard was placed upon all the bridges over the Danube connecting Hungary and Servian soil. Possibilities are rampant everywhere in Vienna, based upon the mobilization of these large armies.

The greatest source of apprehension is the assumption that the Russian Government is lamentably weak and that the pan-Slavism in St. Petersburg and Moscow is redoubtably strong. Next week's session will begin at 9 o'clock A. M. and at 1:30 o'clock P. M. may at any moment be forced and a hellish line of action struck.

CHESTNUT RIDGE FOREST FIRE
ALMOST CATCHES TWO HUNTERS*Escape With Lives After Run of Three Miles.

Chased three miles as fast as their legs could carry them, by the fires on Chestnut Ridge, David Francis and John Kilpatrick arrived at their homes here, yesterday, after a thrilling adventure. Both had narrow escapes from the wall of flame.

The men left, Thursday, for a hunt near Oak Blata. Late in the day, they climbed from a gully to and over a knoll, where they were confronted by the fire. The flames, given speed by the wind, bore down, circling to the right and left. Francis and Kilpatrick began a retreat, the first sweeping after them. For more than a half-hour they plunged through the woods, the burning bushes and trees at their backs. Almost exhausted, they plunged into the open.

The men today said the flames crept to the tops of tall trees and presented an awe-inspiring sight. Much damage, they declared, was done. Dry leaves, almost a foot deep on the ground, are feeding the fire.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 23.—Deep solemnity and a new seriousness of purpose marked the faces of thousands of women who attended the opening of the third session of the National Woman's Suffrage League, in Witherspoon hall today. The words of Reginald Wright Kauffman, writer on social evils, were declared there were 100,000 "white slaves," or half as many as the men under the arms of the countries allied against Turkey, are in this country today, rang in the ears of the women. His startling declaration of conditions opened a new and wider avenue for the activities of the suffrage workers.

The women discussed in quiet tones the statements in Mr. Kauffman's address and attempted to seek a solution of the problem. "It means now," said a pretty delegate from Ohio, "that we must work harder for the ballot in order that we may save our fallen sisters."

So successful has the convention been that another open-air meeting in Independence hall has been arranged for this afternoon. It will be addressed by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Miss Jane Adams and other leading women workers.

BOY EATS CANDY; DIES.Westmoreland to Probe Death of James Hawks, County Home.

The recent mysterious death of James Hawks, aged 12, at the Westmoreland Children's Home at Greensburg, promises sensational developments if the allegations of relatives are true. The boy died on November 6. He was a son of James Hawks, formerly of Jeannette. The child's father and mother have been estranged for several years.

Following the separation of the couple, Hawks placed his two children, James and Virginia, in the orphanage. On Tuesday, November 5, according to the story told by children at the home, James Hawks was called from among his playmates by a heavily veiled woman, who said, "Hello, Jamie, don't you know me?" According to the lad's companions, the strange woman gave him candy and after eating a part, he threw the rest away, saying it was bitter. That night the boy became extremely ill, dying the next morning. The father has started an investigation in conjunction with the county officials.

SOISSON THEATRE

ONE NIGHT,
WEDNESDAY,

NOV. 27

READ WHAT THE PITTSBURG CRITICS SAID
ON OCTOBER 1, 1912

EXACTLY AS PRESENTED AT THE ALVIN
THEATRE, PITTSBURG

Pittsburg Post.
I don't know when I have enjoyed myself as I did last evening in the Alvin, and I can safely advise anyone who finds pleasure in a pretty story, gracefully told by players who seem to breathe life into the attractive personages who wended their way through the Alcott book, to go and see the play.

Pittsburg Leader.
No one need fear being disappointed at seeing the characters visualized, for they simply "are" the ones known and cherished so long. With all the principal incidents of the book, collected into a coherent and interesting story, this dramatization is perfectly satisfying and complete. The work of the various actors and actresses is delightful. One feels there really is a labor of love, so thoroughly do they enter into the rolls.

Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.
The dramatized version is produced by William A. Brady, who deserves the thanks of the American theatre-going public for the discretion he has used in selecting a caste to reproduce in life the characters so dear to many in memory.

Pittsburg Gazette-Times.
"Little Women" is the sort of stage message that defies criticism, for it is above and beyond any of the petty rules by which we measure values. It is the echo of an old song, sung in clearer, sweeter measure. It is the coring of life of the old brain children who once were so shadowy on the lens of childhood's tender vision.
CHARLES M. BRIGGS.

Pittsburg Dispatch.
Jessie Bonstelle, the well-known stock actress, audited Mrs. de Forest in her work while William A. Brady consented to produce it. The play was presented here for the first time at the Alvin Theatre last night before a very large and representative audience, whose appreciation of the piece was very marked and cordial.

Pittsburg Leader.
Full of heart appeal, unusual truth to the book from which it has been adapted for stage presentation, and most capably presented by a company of artists, highly efficient and well balanced, the production of Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women" at the Alvin Theatre last night was a dramatic delight.

A HAPPY, LAUGHING CHILD IN FEW HOURS

If Cross, Feverish, Tongue Coated or Sick, Give "Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Don't scold your cross, noisy child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and bowels are filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not dragging your children, being composed entirely of licentious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, tasty, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.—Advertisement.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 23, 1912

OUR EX-PRESIDENTS.

Our ex-presidents have never been numerous or nearly enough to give the country serious concern as to their future public service or the possibility of pensions to maintain them in a manner befitting their dignity; nevertheless, these questions are generally recognized as proper for consideration, and even progressive in their character.

William Jennings Bryan, who has been a near-ex-president and can therefore speak with propriety and without prejudice, suggests that ex-presidents be made members at large of the Senate with a voice and without a vote. President Taft, who will soon be an ex-president, does not regard this proposition with favor. He objects, in his own language, to being "buried" in the Senate.

The Bryan proposition is neither new nor Democratic. It has been made in other political quarters on other ex-presidents, but it has never reached a legislative stage because the subjects have never evinced an active interest in it. The question is not one which concerns the subject alone; it concerns the people, and the representatives of the people should consider it solely in the latter light.

Some of our presidents have been more able than others, but none have been wholly deficient in ability. After they have served four or eight years in the White House they have gained an experience in public affairs which is valuable and which should not be wholly lost to the country. The public welfare would be promoted by retaining in the active councils of the nation statesmen of such tried value. If the legislation would go further and make them members of both houses, with an ample salary, the problem of how to maintain them would also be solved without the necessity of making them mere pensioners.

In the meantime, Hon. Andrew Carnegie's Philanthropic Fund has established a fund for the purpose of paying ex-presidents and their widows pensions of $25,000 per annum, and this action will probably do more than anything else toward promoting action on the question. "Why not shall we do with our ex-presidents?"

The Uniontown Herald is painfully anxious to get rid of the Conneltsville editors. It suggests that the latter be pensioned. We are willing to be pensioned, but in view of the recent confession of our contemporary that the power of the press is indifferently developed in Fayette county we despair of the Herald's ability to make its suggestion effective. We will probably be compelled to remain a thorn in the flesh for yet a little longer.

The Greene county coal field shows signs of renewed activity.

The Uniontown Herald is blushing. It wants to be a silver fountain pen against a blonde temptress and we haven't any use for either. The boys on the editorial board may be scarce but they are numerous enough to stand up and be counted.

We've rung the bell that sounds the knell of naked ball, but that's not all; there still remains, brimful of pain, (the) School football.

Like the ghost of Jacques, coke will not down.

If the coke brokers had continued in business they would have made much by this time to buy the coke again.

The (supposed) Conneltsville of Westmoreland county has stricken its municipal properties since the prison doors closed upon him.

Under his new management the Conneltsville steel company has developed a lively interest in first aid work. It may or may not be significant that the H. C. Snyder (Coke) Company was a pioneer in this humane work.

The Mother Jones asteroid is of the malignant Saturnian order.

The Erie Marshal of Conneltsville has been indicted for the crime of putting his hands to the State Prison but then he experienced in putting them out.

Christmas coke comes high, but not any higher than steel. Prosperity is wanted.

While Baltimore is expanding its railroad facilities its Monocahela water main remains ready to one small pocket line. We hope the doomed Youth will do better.

The political campaign is over, but miners' union politics has just begun.

Leisenring's missing man has been located in Greene county and discovered in a Springfield township. The discovery is more probable and more satisfying than the Internet.

The reported declaration of an alleged reverend boarder that he owed his bill and had the money to pay it, but that he proposed to make Fayette board him for nothing this winter, emphasizes the arguments already made in favor of a Fayette County Work-house.

Coal mining institutes, like teachers' institutes, have the holiday season closely.

The Conneltsville spokes have broken out again.

The lumbering interest in Somerset county and the Cheat river country has taken a fresh start.

The peace of Europe is threatened again, and with it the hope of a better labor supply in the coke region.

Looking Backward.

The only opened mine of J. A. Strickler & Company, of Youngwood branch, indefinitely closed down.

Monongahela Coal & Coke Company's mine No. 2 delivered and loaded 1,145 tons of coal in one day, making biggest day's work on record in region.

Homestead strike brought to an end, Sunday morning, when the Amalgamated Association, declared Homestead built open to union men by vote of 101 against 91.

Strong evidence furnished by movements of miners that the river coal strike will end in favor of the operators.

The Holland, crazy negro, captured under ledge of rocks in Trump's Hollow, after running wild for six months. Constable Campbell and Police in Caldwell made arrest.

Businesses running lines in Jefferson county, Somerset county, supposedly in water supply project.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1912.

Conneltsville coke region report for week ending Saturday, November 15, shows 12,215 ovens in blast, 3,371 tons, and an estimated output of 235,635 tons, slump of 5,875 tons from past week. Lower Conneltsville region has 3,912 ovens in blast and 124 (idle) ovens in blast, 18,004 tons, slump of 47 tons from past week. Shipments in past week were 10,091 cars from Conneltsville region, gain of 438 over previous week, and 1,423 cars in Lower Conneltsville region, slump of 87 cars from past week. Furnace coke quoted at $3 and $3.60; foundry at $3.75 and $4 per ton. Coke production slump due to continued inability of railroads to supply cars and better prices. H. C. Frick Coke Company compelled to lay off ton plants for five days in past week. Small operators shut down two days.

Buying of coal land in lower Fayette unusually active. Lower town, 61 acres near High House, purchased by J. C. Work, W. E. Crow and C. P. Kefover of Uniontown, for $75 per acre. Harry and George Whelchel bought 32 acres of coal land near Walter Laughlin and Jasper Augustine, Greensburg township.

The Loblith Iron Company, of Steubenville, O., begins erection of 200 ovens on Doyle farm, Luzerne township.

Joseph McConnell and J. C. Getty, of the Pittsburgh plant of Sligo company, inspect plant here. As soon as machinery is moved, work on new mill will be begun.

Greene county coal field to be developed at early date. Wabash agreed to first to enter. John A. Murphy and George M. Hovack, of Pittsburgh, former Conneltsville boys, take out charter for Pennsylvania, Monongahela & Southern Railroad Company, line to open up about 100,000 acres of river coal in Greene and Washington counties.

Congested conditions of railroads, causing suspension of foundries and furnaces in all parts of country through inability to move coke from Conneltsville region, to be given immediate attention by Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroad officials.

General re-arrangement of Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Conneltsville railway tracks, to secure easier route up East End hill, with route to New Haven over Greenwood bridge and branch line on North Pittsburgh street considered.

"Getting In Right"

If you needed the services of a medical man you would want to feel sure that when you called in a Doctor that you had a man who was skillful, competent and responsible. If you were seeking an Attorney to handle important legal matters for you, you naturally would look for a capable, successful, reputable lawyer. If you are figuring on a piano investment why not use the same conservatism and make sure that you are dealing with people of character, who are not only well informed, but highly responsible as well.

The following is our creed; does it appeal to you:

Honesty of purpose, honesty in quality, honesty in material, honesty in workmanship, honesty in trade, honesty in price, and one price to all. No fake schemes, no fake guessing contests, no fake prizes, no fake reductions.

With all the hysterical, special and club sales held by other stores not one offers prices, terms or other equivalents equal to those obtainable here every day in the year.

FULL SPEED AHEAD

THE BUSIEST DAYS OF THE YEAR

The Union Supply Company stores are now having the busiest days of the year; they are pushing ahead at full speed, and we are arranging for a continuance of big business until after Christmas. The cold weather is making a great demand for all sorts of winter goods. The great piles of quantities of winter underwear, hosiery, sweaters, and such other winter garments that we are selling daily, and the great quantities of the same lines that are coming in daily are really enormous. But the object in talking about them here, is to impress you with the fact that we have the right kind of goods, and they are being sold at reasonable prices. Otherwise we would not have this big trade, and further we want to induce you to come to our store for these lines. We have the best line of garments in underwear in the market. We have sweaters of all colors, all sizes from 50c to $5.00. We have all kinds of gloves; woolen in fancy colors; leather of all sorts and prices, short glove or with the gauntlet. We have the buck mitts and gloves; the old fashioned kind; never rip. We want you to look at these goods, and look further through our general line of furnishings for men, women, boys and children. They are the most complete stocks you can find in any store in the coke region. We also want to call attention to our very handsome winter coats for women and girls, and for small children. Goods manufactured especially for us and sold to you at the very lowest price that can be quoted.

We Expect to Have Many Bargain Sales for Women During the Next Month

Daily, our stores will have some new attraction. One day it will be millinery; next day perhaps coats for women and children. Then we will change to dress goods likely; then likely a remnant day. Now if you will watch the stores; watch the sales they are daily advertising, and are prepared to take advantage of the numerous bargains, it is going to be a great money saving to you. Many remnants are accumulating always in large stocks. We cannot afford to keep them and our plan is to sell them out at one-half the original regular price. They often consist of short ends of dress goods, white goods, lace goods or perhaps gingham, or some other wash goods. Then it may be some odds and ends in skirts, shirt waists or some other useful garment. Watch the bargain sales; you cannot afford to miss them. It is a good opportunity to buy goods for Christmas gifts, but a better opportunity to buy goods you actually need daily; first-class in quality and much less than actual value.

WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful — And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when often it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 6, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has restored the health of thousands of suffering women. Why don't you try it?

BOWELS SLUGGISH, STOMACH SOUR, GASSY, UPSET? CASCARETS GREAT!

That awful sickness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating,
feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, all of your bile—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation.
Try Cascarets; they immediately sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning.

10 Cents. Never grips or sickens.

THE KINGDOM IN TABLEAU.

Mark ix, 2-13—Nov. 24.
 "A voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is My beloved Son; hear ye Him. And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone."
 —Luke ix, 35.

Our studies continue to appertain to Messiah's Kingdom of Glory. Today's lesson tells of a tableau illustration given to His disciples respecting it. The lesson deeply impressed the Apostles who witnessed the vision. Peter, James and John. St. Peter referred to it afterward in his Epistle (I Peter i, 10-12), saying, "We have not followed cunningly devised fables when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eye-witnesses of His Majesty . . . when we were with Him in the holy mount."

Jesus prepared His disciples for the transfiguration vision, saying, "There be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, until they see God's Royal Majesty having come with power." The occasion will be remembered. Jesus had foretold His death, quite contrary to the previous expectations of the Apostles, and now He sought to draw their minds gradually to a realization that His death would not mean a repudiation of the promise of the Kingdom and its glory, but a fulfillment of their expectations on a higher plane.

Jesus was to formally offer Himself to Israel as King, riding upon the ass, five days before His crucifixion, yet He would be despised and rejected and crucified; but His Kingly Office and "This is My beloved Son" would there be confirmed. His authority to be King of the earth, to release mankind from the power of sin and death, to uplift humanity and bring the earth to Paradise conditions, would all be founded upon His sacrificial death at Calvary.

All this was presented to the three chosen disciples. Jesus took them to the mountain-top and was transfigured before them. His flesh and His garments shone and shined white after the manner of angels, the vision thus representing the Lord after having experienced His resurrection change. Then with Him talked two men, "who appeared in glory," says St. Luke. In some manner the Apostles recognized these two men of the vision as Moses and Elijah. They heard these discourses with Jesus respecting His death, which He was about to accomplish at Jerusalem.

Then came a voice from the overshadowing cloud saying, "This is My beloved Son, hear ye Him!" and suddenly the vision vanished. Several good lessons may have come out of this. It would be a great refreshment and strength to their faith to witness this vision, which showed them that the death Jesus had foretold, was a certain and known of God, and of Divine approval. The voice from God would also encourage their faith.

As the Apostles, with Jesus, were coming down the mountain side, wondering about the meaning of the vision they had seen, Jesus said to them, "See that ye tell no man the vision until after the Son of Man is risen from the dead." (Matthew xvi, 9.) The fact that Moses and Elijah appeared as real to the Apostles, as though they were in life, does not contradict the words of Jesus that what they saw was a vision. Remember the many visions given later on to one of these Apostles, St. John, recorded in the book of Revelation. In these visions St. John saw angels and men, heard voices, etc., just as in this vision.

The Meaning of the Vision.

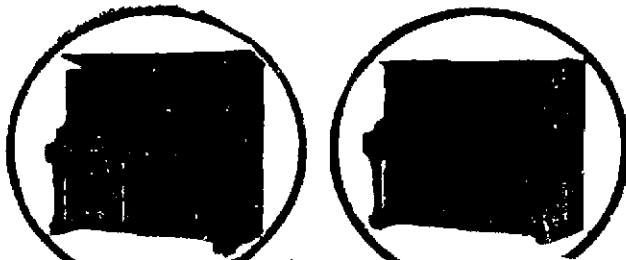

We have St. Peter's words that what they saw on the mountain represented the Royal Majesty of Messiah—the Kingdom of Messiah. Moses represented the faithful of Natural Israel, the "House of Servants"—Moses as a servant, was faithful over all his House. Elijah represented the Christ in the flesh, the House of Sons. All of the consecrated, spirit-begotten people of God during this Age are represented by Elijah, who, God promised, should come before Messiah would set up His Kingdom.

In other words, the Elijah class is composed of Jesus and all of His footstep followers throughout this Gospel Age—in their earthly or fleshly condition. Split begotten, but not yet spirit born. There is no doubt whatever respecting the Kingdom promised—that it will come; that vision on the mount confirmed it. The Kingdom merely awaits the sufferings of those who will be the members of the Body of Christ. At the Second Coming of Jesus these will be blessed and glorified; and the class represented by Moses will also be blessed and used as instruments of the Kingdom. Thus in the vision the entire Kingdom was represented: first of all, by Jesus Himself, secondly by Elijah, who represented the Church class; and thirdly by Moses, who represented the faithful on the earthly plane.

COUGH LASTED EIGHT YEARS

But Bear's Emulsion Finally Cured It.

Read the Testimony of Mr. H. B. Gentry, the Well-Known Postmaster at Elkton, Va.

Dear John D. Bear, Elkton, Va.
 Sir:—About eight years ago I contracted a bad case of pneumonia which left me with a cough. At first I paid little attention to it, being elated over my recovery, which had been retarded unfavorably by my physician. The cough continued to annoy me in four years ago, when my physician advised me to use Bear's Emulsion prepared by you. I did so, using three bottles when I had been a much benefited that I discontinued use of it. Since that time I have used several bottles during the winter, and at such times when afflicted by it, I have been completely cured the cough.

Very respectfully,
 H. B. Gentry, Elkton, Va., Nov. 30.

"LITTLE WOMEN." Louise M. Alcott's immortal story of Meg, Jo and Amy, which has enjoyed a popularity second to none of the novels of today, has been dramatized by Marion de Forest, a Buffalo newspaper woman, through an arrangement with Jesse Bonstelle (who secured the dramatic rights from the Alcott heirs), and will be presented under William A. Brady's direction, at the Soloson theatre, Wednesday, November 27.

Jane Marbury as "Jo" in Little Women.

 Sweet, simple, quaint and refreshing is this story of a half-century ago, and the play is as charming as the book, bringing very close to those who know and love the story the old friends from out the covers of the book into that larger, more intimate life of the stage.
 "TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE." "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," Eugene Walter's great play, which comes here to the Soloson Wednesday, December 4, contains no problems, no question of sex dominance, but is absolute in the purity of its sentiment, the uplift of its morale, the poetry of its romance, which is only another name for the infinite ideal.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Hughes' Story.

Hamlin thrust his glove into his belt, drew forth his revolver, and gripped its stock with bare hand. This odd, hidden dwelling might be deserted, a mere empty shack, but he could not disconnect it in his mind from that murderous attack made upon their little party two hours before. Why was it here in the heart of this desert? Why built with such evident intent of concealment? But for what had occurred on the plateau above, his suspicions would never have been aroused. This was already becoming a cattle country; adventurous Texans, seeking from range and abundant water, had advanced along all these prominent streams with their grazing herds of long-horns. Little by little they had gained precarious foothold on the Indian domains, slowly forcing the savages westward. The struggle had been continuous for years, and the final result inevitable. Yet this year the story had been different; one for the united tribes had swept the invading stockmen back, had butchered their cattle and once again roamed these plains as masters. Hamlin knew this he had met and talked with these driven out and he was aware that even now Black Kettle's winter camp of hostiles was not far away. This late night of course, he the deserted site of some old cow camp, some outcrafter's shack but—the fellow who first met him—He was a really a dangerous reality—and he was hiding somewhere close at hand.

The sergeant stole along the front to the door, listening intently for any warning sound from either without or within. Every nerve was on edge; all else forgotten except the intensity of the moment. He could perceive nothing to alarm him; no evidence of any presence inside. Slowly, noiselessly, he felt for the latch, and, perceiving the door to swing slightly ajar, yielding a glimpse within. There was light from above, filtering dimly through a crack in the blind, and the darker shadows were relieved by the cheer glow of a fire place directly opposite, although where the smoke did appear was not at first evident. In this perspective of the interior, a rude table and a bench, a little lamp in one corner, a saddle and trap-pings were against the wall, a few dried berries in a tin on the floor, a pile of skins beyond. There was an appearance of neatness also, the floor swept, the table uncluttered. Yet he scarcely realized these details at the time so closely as his whole attention centered on the figure of a man. The fellow occupied a stool before the fireplace, and was bending slightly forward, and was bending slightly forward, unconscious of the intruder. He was a middle-aged, unkempt individual with long hair, and shaggy whiskers, both iron gray. The side of his face and neck had a silken look, while his nose was prominent. The sergeant surveyed him a moment, his coiled revolver covering the motionless figure, his lips set grimly. Then he stepped within and closed the door.

At the slight sound the other leaped to his feet, overturning the stool, and whirled about swiftly, his right hand dropping to his belt.

"That will do, friend!" Hamlin's voice rang stern.

"Stand as you are—your gun is lying on the bench yonder. Rather careless of you in this country. No, I wouldn't risk it if I was you; this is a hair trigger."

The fellow stared helplessly into the sergeant's gray eyes.

"Who—who the hell are you?" he managed to articulate hoarsely, "a—soldier?"

Hamlin nodded, willing enough to let the other talk.

"You're—you're not one of Le Ferre's outfit?"

"Whose?"

"Gene Le Ferre—the damn skunk; you know him?"

Startled as he was, the sergeant held himself firm, and laughed.

"I reckon there isn't any one by that name a friend o' mine," he said coolly. "So you're free to relieve your feelings as far as I'm concerned. Were you expecting that gun along this trail?"

"Yes, I was, an' 'twas'n't no pleasant little reception I loved to give him neither. Say! Wouldn't you just as soon lower that shootin' iron? We ain't got no call to quarrel so far as I kin see."

"Maybe not, stranger," said Hamlin, leaning back against the table, lowering his weapon slightly, as he glanced wistfully about the room; "but I'll keep the gun handy just the same until we understand each other. Anybody else in this neighborhood?"

"Not unless it's Le Ferre, an' his crowd."

"Fore ever I saw him. Never laid eyes on the red afore but he was friendly 'nough, natchally mistakin' me fer one o' Le Ferre's herdors. His name was Black Smoke, an' he couldn't talk no English worth mentionin'; but we made out to understand each other in Mex. He was too darn hungry and tired to talk much anyhow. But I got what I wanted to know out o' him."

"Well, go on, Hughes, you are making a long story out o' it."

"The rest is short 'nough. It seems he an' ol' Koleta, an' a young Cheyenne buck, had been hangin' round across the river from Dodge fer quite a while waitin' fer Le Ferre to pull out some sort o' stunt. Maybe I didn't get just the straight o' it, but anyhow they held up a parsonator, or something like that, fer a big hoodie. They expected to do it quiet like, hold the officer a day or so out in the desert, an' then turn him loose to howl. But them plans didn't just exactly work. The fellow's daughter was with him, when the pinch was made, an' they had to take her 'long too. Then the officer man got ugly, an' had to be shot, an' Le Ferre quarrelled with the other white man in the outfit, an' killed him. That left the gal on their hands, an' them all in a hole of a fix if they was ever caught. The young Indians wanted to kill the gal too, an' shot her mouth, but somehow Le Ferre an' Koleta wouldn't hear to it—said she'd be worth more alive than dead, an' that they could hide her whar she'd never be heard o' agin unless her friends put up money to buy her back."

Hamlin was leaning forward, watching the speaker intently, and it seemed to him his heart had stopped beating. This story had the semblance of truth, it was the truth. Ho Dupont and Le Ferre were one and the same. He could believe this now, could perceive the resemblance, although the man had grown older, taken on flesh,

"What?" interrupted the other sharply. "Do you mean he married into one of the tribes?"

"What!" interrupted the other sharply. "Do you mean he married into one of the tribes?"

"Sorter left-handed—yep; a Cheyenne woman. Little thing like that didn't faze Gene none, if he did have a white wife—a blamed good looker she was too. She was out here once, three years ago, 'bout a week maybe 'cause she didn't know nothin' 'bout the squaw, an' the Indians was all huntin' down in the Wichitas. But an' I was sayin', Gene caught on to this yere Indian war last spring—" and disguised himself wonderfully by growing that black beard. Yet, at the moment, he scarcely considered the man at all, his whole interest concentrated on the fate of the unfortunate girl.

"Whom were they taking her, Hughes—do you know?"

"What? but one place fer 'em to take her—the Cheyennes her got winter camp down yonder on the Canadian—Black Kettle's outfit. Once there, all hell couldn't pry her loose."

"And Le Ferre dared go there? Among those hostiles?"

"Him?" Hughes laughed scornfully. "Why, he's hand in glove with the whole bunch. He's railed with 'em, decked out in feathers an' war-paint."

The sergeant thought rapidly and leaped to a sudden conclusion.

"And you were trying to kill him when you shot us up?"

"That was the idea, stranger; if I got a friend o' yours, I'm powerful sorry."

BABY IN MISERY WITH SKIN TROUBLE

On Fingers, Water Blisters of Itching Nature. When Scratched Would Spread. Not Able to Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment Few Weeks, Trouble Gone.

124 Pennsylvania St., Chester, Pa.—"On her fingers my baby had like water blisters of an itching nature. They seemed the water blisters with white heads. She would scratch her fingers until she would be in misery. It appeared when she scratched them they would seem to spread. Her fingers seemed to burn with fever. Her hands would get red and inflamed and she would want to hold them in cold water. She was not able to sleep and when she slept at times she would scratch her fingers. She was cross and fretful and would sit up in bed at night and cry and scratch her hands furiously, especially if she got a bit over heated. The child was in a pitiful condition."

"She had been troubled about two months. I washed her with Cuticura Soap and used the Cuticura Ointment on her sores. It seemed to be miraculous the change in her after their use. I did not use the Cuticura Soap but a few weeks until the trouble was gone. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured her. This was about two years ago and she has never been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. J. J. McCabe, Apr. 12, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient when all else has failed. Cuticura Soap (25c) and Ointment (50c) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card: Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston.

SHORTAGE IN COAL CARS AND SOME OF THE CAUSES OF IT

Long Hauls Which Drain the Mining Districts of Transportation.

IT'S UP TO THE COAL TRADE

To Work With the Railroads and Avoid Fuel Expenses by Providing a System of Warehousing Subsidies to Keep Supply at Market Doors.

Discussing the coal shortage the Chicago Black Diamond says:

Not infrequently the coal trade adds to the railroad disorder by making necessary disturbing long hauls. For example, there is a certain amount of activity in the coke industry. That commodity, we will say, has been moving in orderly fashion over short distances between the ovens and the markets. Then suddenly there comes an excessive demand from all parts of the country, and prices rise in exact proportion to the distance that the consumer is from the centers of production. The possibility of making a profitable sale in a distant market appeals to the coke operator and even though his ovens are located in the vicinity of Chicago, he will think nothing whatever of sending a shipment into New Mexico, Colorado or even through to the Pacific coast. The railroads must comply with the shipper's directions because they are common carriers. Thus they may send cars of coke through to the Pacific coast in obedience to a mandate from the Interstate Commerce Commission, knowing when they do so that this long distance is going to complicate the coal situation, and react upon the coke oven to curtail its production.

The coal trade frequently presents examples of the same tendency. Customarily the coal supply of the West comes from Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois, the movement being over regular routes. As a result of many things, the supply is now equal to the demand, hence prices have risen to abnormal levels. This abnormal price tempts the shipper of coal from Kentucky to get a part of his product into this high priced territory. It happens that the Southern railroads have not been accustomed to making any very extensive shipments into the field. As a consequence when compelled to make such a shipment, the Southern railroads are doing what is for them the unusual thing. This disturbs the regular routine of their affairs, and introduces confusion in direct proportion.

Another example is presented in the matter of coal shipments into certain parts of the Northwest. A big section of that territory customarily is served from the lake docks. Northwestern railroads have been accustomed to making that shipment, and with them it is a matter of routine. However, it is apparent this year that lake coal is going to fall short of the need for it and that the Northwest will have to be supplied with coal from some other producing section. Small eastern mines will ship coal there by the rail and car ferry route and Indiana and Illinois will ship their coal into the Northwest to prevent a coal shortage. That the prices are attractive makes the movement all the more nearly sure.

However, the railroads have not been accustomed to making these long hauls in coal, and, of course, to make such hauls is outside of their routine. It presents to them a problem, which, by habit, they have not been solving. By giving them a new problem the coal men confirm their belief that the coal trade is going to avoid the coal shortage incident to our shortage, and that for their own protection, provide a system of warehousing that will have a visible supply of coal at the door of the big markets.

It would be possible to find a great many other causes of our shortage, all as vital as the two we have given. The more of these annoying things we uncover, the more inevitable will be the conclusion that the coal trade must avoid its own coal shortage without expecting the railroads to do it, and must proceed to work out the solution of its own problem without waiting for the slow and tedious procedure of transportation reform to get the desired result.

Most Men Will "Dress Up" For the Feast

And to "dress up" right means a new suit above all else. Think of the impression, man, you can create with proper attire, at the dinner table, foot-ball game or reception; think of the impression you'll leave if your clothes are not up to the mark. Men must dress the part even to walk to the postoffice, and the man carelessly attired is noticed by more eyes than YOU can guess, and it is not the most favorable notice, either. Here are suits of the finest type, ready to slip on. The colors are right and so are fabrics, making and style. Better give it some thought—how you will look next Thursday, November the twenty-eighth. Think, and then drop in here—the store of the finest clothing in America.

PIG IRON PRICES START ON ANOTHER UPWARD MOVEMENT

Unfinished Steel Almost Unobtainable and Independent Tin Mill Situation Acute.

NEW YORK, November 23.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the iron and steel market tomorrow morning as follows: "Steel-making pig iron in the Central West has started moving again, round tonnage of Bessemer having sold at $17.25, Valley, and of Basic at $16.25, Valley, with prospects that further sales will be made at 25 cents higher. The Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, for instance, which purchased 10,000 tons of basic ten days ago at $16.25, Valley, has later paid $17.25 for Bessemer. Total sales of Bessemer and Basic iron in the Pittsburgh-Valley market in the past ten days probably exceed 100,000 tons.

An apparent anomaly in the market is the weakness in iron and steel scrap, which has openly declined and sometimes shows odd lots offered at still lower figures to consumers, particularly in the Pittsburgh district, are postponing shipments. The condition is attributed to too much speculative buying by dealers on the recent advance.

Unfinished steel has grown almost unobtainable, offerings being very rare. Billets and sheet bars are quotable at least 50 cents higher than a week ago, though transactions are so limited as to furnish relatively little clue to the market. This condition confronting some of the independent steel and sheet plate mills, as to the steel supply for the first quarter, has grown acute, and considerable idleness of finishing capacity is promised.

Rivets have been advanced $2.00 a ton, to 2.10c for structural. Thermometers advance in shafting is not likely to be made, from fear of competition by jobbers having low-priced contracts. The rumor that merchant pipe is to be advanced 2-3 points this month is obviously without foundation.

The close approach of the winter weather has not materially decreased the pressure upon mills for deliveries of finished steel, while along some lines the pressure is increased. It is represented that while some buyers may have speculative ideas in urging shipments, the mills are carefully investigating all cases and acting accordingly, so that the material which is being shipped is going into actual consumption.
